

Voyager working well now

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Voyager 2 spacecraft appeared to be functioning well today after a shaky launch that nearly ruined the flight towards Jupiter, scientists said Sunday.

"Two of the three problems, which came up during the launch, have diminished somewhat," said Alan Wood of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The space probe was launched from Cape Canaveral in Florida Saturday morning, but its control was taken over by JPL here after it separated from the launch rocket.

"There may have been a rough launch, but it's a very accurate one," Wood said. "It's on an excellent trajectory and we have to do only a minimum maneuver next week or so to bring it close on the target point of Jupiter."

One of the major problems was the apparent failure of a boom to deploy fully. The boom holds the television cameras and science instruments. But JPL said it apparently did deploy, at least partially.

"Engineers now believe it is within a very few degrees of full deployment, if not fully deployed," Wood said.

A faulty computer memory and the malfunction of one of three gyroscopes also caused some worry.

"The faulty computer memory is being checked," Wood said. "The science instruments that are on are all working normally. But there is practically no data because the channels are being used for engineering to analyze the problems."

Test photographs of the earth and moon were delayed and may not be performed at all because by the time it could be done, the craft would be too far away.

Voyager 2 and its sister vehicles are aimed at the outer planets of Saturn and Jupiter, largest in the solar system, seeking information of outer space. But Voyager 2 also has some information to give, if an alien finds it.

Inside the craft is a goldplated phonograph record — designed to last a billion years — featuring 110 minutes of the sounds of hundreds of animals, the cries of a newborn baby and greetings in 55 earth languages.

It also contains data that could be used to reproduce 315 photographs of earth people and messages from President Carter and United Nations' Secretary Kurt Waldheim.

Voyager 2 actually was the first to be sent up. Voyager 1 originally was scheduled to be launched Sept. 1, but NASA officials decided late Sunday night to postpone the launching of Voyager 1 for at least two days in an effort to learn more about the problems its predecessor encountered in Saturday's launch.

Voyager Project Manager John Casani of the JPL, said, "We are now working toward a Sept. 3 launch."

Voyager 1 will travel on a faster trajectory and should encounter Jupiter early in 1979, four months ahead of Voyager 2.

Both spaceships have 11 instruments each to study the outer planets, their satellites, the rings of Saturn and interplanetary space. After their studies, both will move into deep space.

Voyager 1 will reach its closest point to Jupiter March 5, 1979, flying about 178,000 miles from the planet's surface. It also will study the four largest of the planet's 13 — or maybe 14 — satellites.

Record to jump delivery price

A modest increase in the home subscription price of the Lompoc Record was announced today by Rennie L. Adam, general manager, effective Sept. 1. Home delivery price of the Record will go from the present $2.50 per month to $2.85. News rack prices will remain at 15 cents per single copy. Out of county mailing will be increased from $3 to $3.75, reflecting postal rate increases and from $2.50 to $2.85 for within county mailing. Those serving in the armed services will be charged the in-county rate for subscriptions.

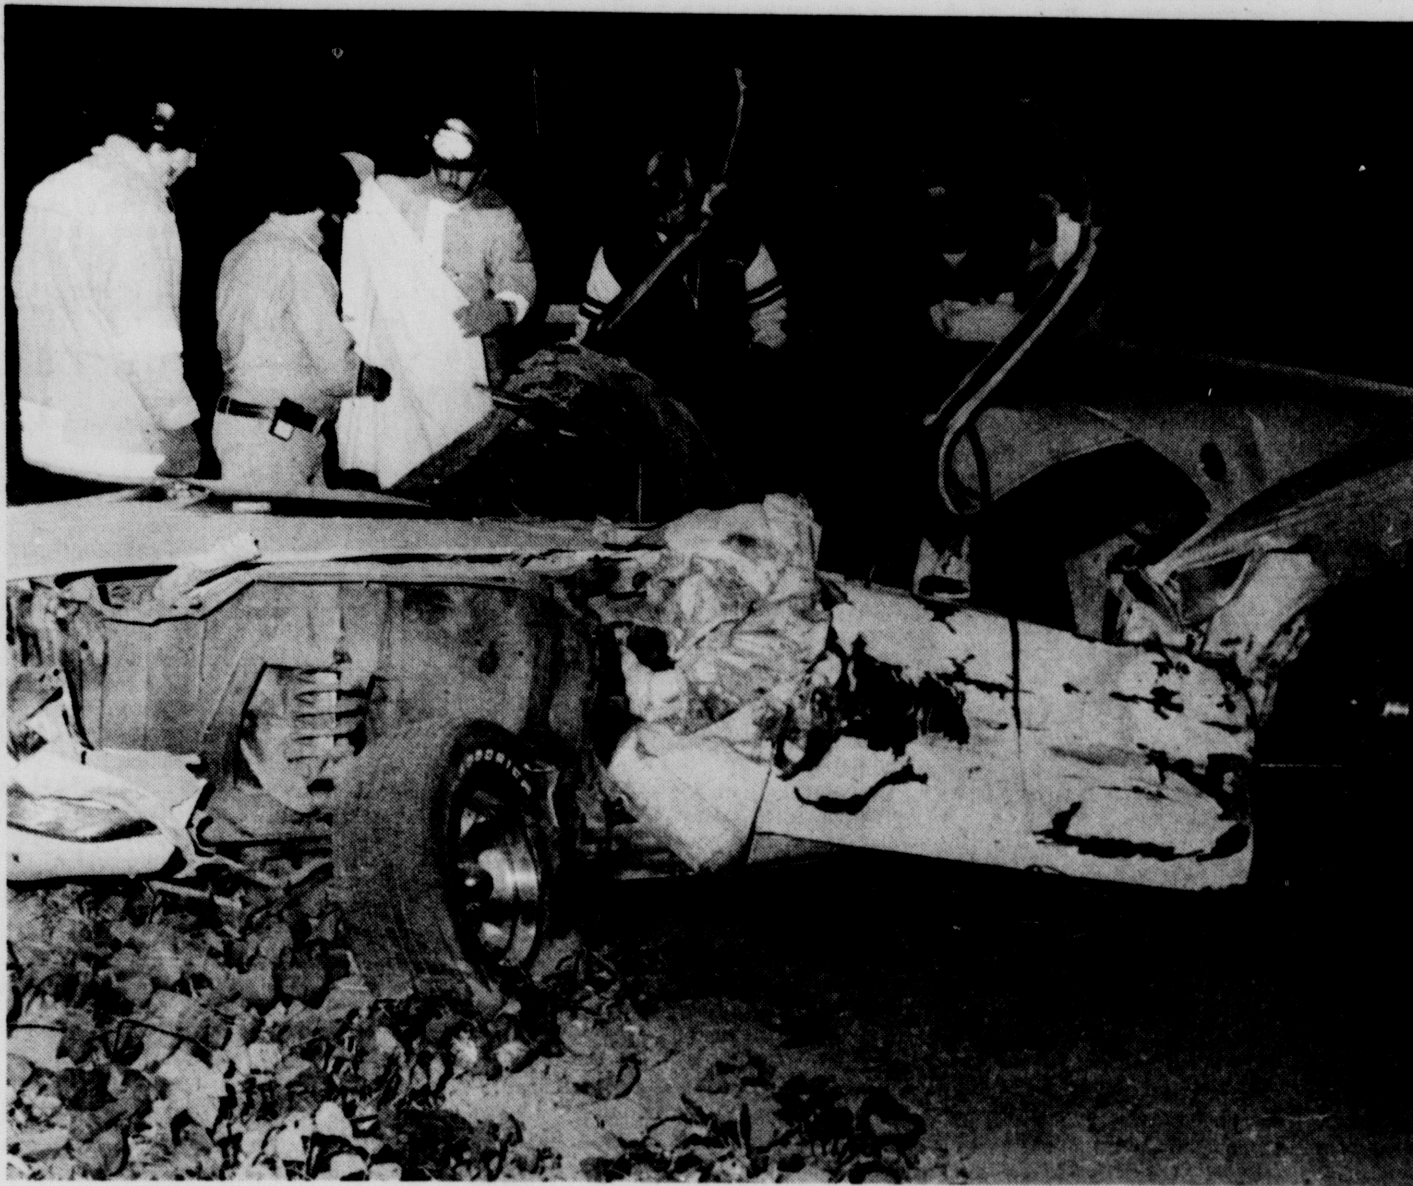

The increase in subscription prices is the first since September, 1974. Record carriers have not had a percentage increase for their efforts since that time, Adam stated. They will receive 20 per cent of the increase.

"We have done everything possible to keep subscription increase to a bare minimum," Adam explained. "However, economic realities have caught up with the growth of the Record and the increase is unavoidable."

"Over the years, newspapers have discounted their home delivery prices over the single copy price but newspapers can no longer afford to do this," he stated.

Adam pointed out that since the last subscription rate increase, the Record has added new and expensive production equipment for better readability and timeliness of news and distribution; contracted for new columnists such as Jack Anderson and Erma Bombeck; purchased a computerized television weekly log; introduced the new Friday "Olio" supplement; expanded news coverage to include daily coverage of Santa Ynez Valley and added editorial personnel for additional news coverage.

Despite the increase, the Record still remains the lowest priced daily newspaper on the Central Coast.

Arson suspect scheduled for court hearing

Suspected arsonist Eddie Dean Mitchell, 18, faces a readiness and settlement hearing before Superior Court Judge Robert L. Trapp Wednesday in Santa Maria.

Mitchell, of 829 W. Cherry Ave., is charged with setting a fire last July 2 in Ryon Park that destroyed $50,000 worth of youth athletic equipment and gutted a youth concession stand. An additional charge of burglary has been added.

Mitchell has pleaded not guilty to the charges. He is represented by Santa Maria Attorney Kenneth Biely.

At the hearing Wednesday, the judge and the defense will explore the charges, determine what evidence is admissible and what is not and set a trial date.

Coalition launches drive to bury Panama Canal pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of conservative groups is undertaking a major advertising and direct mail campaign against ratification of the new Panama Canal agreement, and one senator is promising a filibuster when the time comes.

President Carter's campaign to win approval of the treaty which took 13 years to complete accelerated last week when he sought and received support from Gerald Ford and ex-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The American Conservative Union announced it was running an advertisement in the newspapers of eight cities, declaring:

"There is no Panama Canal! There is an American canal at Panama. Don't let President Carter give it away!"

In a television interview Sunday, Sen. Jessie Helms, R-N.C., promised a filibuster in the Senate when the proposed treaty is put up for a vote.

Helms said although he does not know what position Senate GOP leaders will take on the issue, there definitely will be

FmHA grants sewer system funds to SY

By JAMES P. SWEENEY
Staff writer

The Santa Ynez Community Service District has been awarded $1.25 million in federal funds to build a sewer system, Congressman Robert Lagomarsino's office announced today.

The Farmers Home Administration today mailed a notice to SYCSD detailing approval of a $750,000 grant and a $500,000 loan. The loan is for 40 years at five per cent interest annually.

The funds will be used to construct a sewage system to serve about 260 users. According to an SYCSD spokeswoman, the new sewage system will allow the lifting of a building moratorium imposed on the district since Jan. 24, 1977.

At that time, the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors issued a no building and septic tank ban for the entire area because domestic wells had been declared unfit for drinking.

The spokeswoman said SYCSD formally submitted the application for federal funds August 8 after a meeting July 13 with FmHA officials in Woodland.

District voters, said the spokeswoman, approved a general obligation bond in 1974 for a sewage system and it was assumed bonds would be sold to FmHA because the agency has the lowest interest rate.

The SYCSD is studying two possible systems — connection to Solvang's sanitation system or construction of a local treatment facility.

"Hopefully," said the spokeswoman, "the board will be able to commit itself to one plan or another within the next couple weeks."

She said the Solvang connection — which would require expanding existing facilities — is anticipated at around $3.5 million.

A local plant is estimated to cost less than going to Solvang, the spokeswoman said, but "is contingent upon finding suitable land."

With proper approval of design plans, construction could begin in late 1978. The sewage system is expected to take 18 to 24 months to build.

FmHA also must okay design specifications before any federal funds are released.

Israel rejects U.S. criticism of settlements

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel, in officially rejecting U.S. criticism of its plans for new Jewish settlements on captured Arab lands, says the settlements "will not be an obstacle to negotiations toward peace."

"Israel does not accept and cannot accept the argument that Jewish settlement in the land of Israel is illegal," a cabinet statement drafted by Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Sunday.

"The government expresses its sorrow at the unjustified (U.S.) statements, it said, but added: "The government restates that settlement is not and will not be an obstacle to negotiations toward peace."

The United States, several Arab leaders, Palestinian guerrillas, the European Common Market and even some Israelis have warned new settlements on Jordan's West Bank and Egypt's Gaza Strip will disrupt Arab-Israeli peace talks.

The cabinet also came under fire for voting last week to extend government services to Arabs in those territories, captured in the 1967 war, in a move opponents said was aimed at the full annexation of the lands.

Crash kills Lompoc pair

By VAUGHN PROCTOR

Staff writer

California Highway Patrol and other agencies today continued to investigate the highway crash Sunday night that claimed the lives of two Lompoc residents.

Dead were Eugene Carl Rowe, 28, of 1033 N. Daisy St., and Linda Maria Kiely, 21, of 423 North I St. The identification of Kiely was believed accurate, but the CHP and sheriff's officials said they were unable to contact anyone at the North I Street address to report the death. No one else was injured, according to the CHP.

Kiely was a passenger in Rowe's car. Both were pronounced dead at Lompoc Hospital shortly after the accident which occurred at about 10 p.m.

The accident scene was on Rucker Road about 1,800 feet south of Lompoc-Casmalia Road.

Witnesses reported Rowe was driving north on Rucker and was trying to pass two slower cars when his car sideswiped a car driven by Sherry Lynn Stewart, 16, of 1025 North O St. The Stewart car was southbound at the time, according to the CHP. She was not injured.

One of the two cars being passed by the Rowe car, reportedly carried Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dettamanti of 3118 Pelham Ave. Dettamanti is a rancher and a director of the Santa Ynez River Water Conservation District. Neither of the Dettamantis was injured, and neither was the unidentified driver of the second car, according to the CHP.

The CHP said the Rowe car was on the wrong side of Rucker at the time of the accident. Stewart reportedly swerved her car to the right as it felt the impact of the other car. The CHP said Rowe's car spun out of control, sheared off a utility pole and shot into a field where it landed in an upright position.

Funeral services for Rowe are pending today at Starbuck Mortuary.

Vance, Chinese conduct meeting

PEKING (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance today held the Carter Administration's first high-level contact with China's new leadership. But the first day of talks failed to reach the critical issue of Taiwan and the future of Peking-Washington relations.

The talks were held against the background of staged demonstrations by hundreds of thousands of soldiers and civilians who marched in celebration of the end of the 11th Communist Party congress which publicly confirmed the new leadership of Hua Kuofeng.

The demonstrators marched past the Great Hall of the People where Vance and his Chinese counterpart, Huang Hua, began their official encounter with 2½ hours of talks about the international scene.

Vance's spokesman, Hodding Carter III, said the first meeting turned out to be a monologue by Vance, as he reviewed U.S. foreign policy in Europe and Asia. The spokesman said the second business session Tuesday morning will be a continuation of Vance's presentation.

This meant that the critical issue, the normalization of relations between Peking and Washington, will probably not be taken up until Wednesday, but there were hints in public statements about the Chinese and American attitudes.

At his ritual toast at a banquet tonight at the Great Hall, Foreign Minister Huang skirted the issue.

Huang merely referred to the Shanghai communique of 1972 which said the both mainland China and Taiwan believe there is only one China, including Taiwan, and "The United States does not challenge this view."

Huang referred to a speech by Chairman Hua, but did not choose to embarrass his American guest by directly quoting at the banquet the strong language of Hua's speech to the just-concluded party congress.

In it Hua said that "Taiwan province is China's sacred territory." When and how Peking choose to liberate Taiwan, he said, "is entirely China's internal affair which brooks no further interference whatsoever."

Gordon McAhren, one of the festival organizers, got off the lucky shot. The dunk tank was one of the more popular events during the festival which organizers said attracted some 10,000 people to Ryon Park yesterday and raised an estimated $8,000 for the Youth League Recovery Fund.

Supervisors hear pay recommendations

Santa Barbara County Supervisors who now receive $17,484 per year should immediately receive $24,583 or half that of the county's Superior Court judges who are now on a $49,166 annual salary, the Board of Supervisors was told today by a salary consultant firm.

The firm Hay Associates was hired to make salary recommendations on behalf of 196 unrepresented managerial positions in county government including the supervisors. The firm's finding in general was that the managerial employees salary should be adjusted upward.

The board is expected to refer the report to Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson and the personnel director for recommendations regarding implementation of the recommended salary structure. This review could take at least two or three weeks, Johnson said today.

Other matters before the board include:

— Further consideration of appeals from Cachuma Trailer Park residents that they are permanent rather than second home or vacation home occupants of trailers at the park recently taken over by the county. They claim exemption from orders to move at an early date.

— Support from Assistant County Planning Director Paul Wack and Kim Skinnerland, Local Coastal Program project manager, of the supervisors' action in opposing state legislation designed to pave the way for a liquefied natural gas complex at Pt. Conception without input from the county government or its citizens. They stated that proposed LNG facility "has many potential adverse impacts on the Coastal Zone of the county which could jeopardize our ability to prepare a land use plan that conforms to provisions in the Coastal Act," and added that "in the event that an LNG facility is sited at Pt. Conception, the main tools available to mitigate possible adverse land use impacts are through general plan designations and zoning. We strongly oppose any legislation that will eliminate county control over land use and zoning within its jurisdiction."

— Termination of contract with Santa Maria Span, Inc. for provision of home detoxification program, effective Sept. 30, 1977.

— Recommendation of acting petroleum administrator for approval of request to allow oil pooling area by Hilliard Oil and Gas, Inc. in area of Waller County Park, near Santa Maria, under agreement with the county.

— Execution of contract for draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) with Troups Corp. in amount not to exceed $16,275 for East Orcutt joint EIR. The county environmental office said four residential projects in the area have the potential for generating cumulative significant impacts on water supply and quality, traffic generation, air quality, growth inducement, public services and energy and water consumption.

— Reappointment of Dr. John Dorman as chairman of County Emergency Medical Service Committee.

— Request of tax levy by Santa Maria Valley Water Conservation District.

— Lompoc County Airport tie-down and hangar rental rate increase.

— Regulations pertaining to county-owned parking lots.

— Further protests against LNG siting legislation being prepared in Sacramento.

Expression of concern about scope of work program for countywide housing element being developed by County Planning Department. Michael P. Lynn, administrative assistant, County Housing Authority, said he would recommend the county supervisors halt preparation of the work program temporarily, and solicit an opinion from state housing authorities as to the sufficiency of the Area Planning Council housing element.

— Notification by Santa Maria Valley Water Conservation District that it is in no position to commit itself to purchase imported State Project water in future years. The district reply was the first received by the county.

Ed Davis tells SM Elks drug plan will save youth, taxes

By SUE EDELMAN Staff writer

Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis was the guest of honor Saturday at a Santa Maria barbecue to kickoff a "We Turn in Pushers" week in that city, the 116th in the state.

We T.I.P., a program to provide rewards for anonymous tips on drug dealing, will "save you taxes and save your youth," Davis told the several hundred gathered for lunch at the Santa Maria Elks Lodge.

Davis, a possible contender for the Republican nomination for governor, received standing ovations from the crowd of largely Elks, Kiwanians and other service club members.

Service clubs and other organizations including the American Legion, American Red Cross, Daughters of American Revolution, Boy Scouts and Veterans of Foreign Wars contribute the funds to reward up to $500 for information leading to arrest and conviction of persons involved in drug trafficking and drug-related crimes.

A banner behind the speaker's podium in the banquet hall said, "An Elk believes in God, Country, Family, Youth and Community," and Davis affirmed that drugs threatened these ideals.

Drugs "alienate the youth from his parents, from his religion, from his country," Davis said. "That is the great tragedy of this new thing people have gotten into," and he noted his use of modern slang.

"Twenty years ago there was no drug culture in this country," he said, with frequent arm gestures. "Then lo and behold in the sixties emerged this terrible drug culture," which seemed to offer youth the chance for "internal introspection."

Davis called for an emphasis on "getting high" on life without narcotics. He criticized President Carter and other politicians who support decriminalization of marijuana for "catering to that dope vote."

The police chief advocates We T.I.P. for its support of citizen cooperation with law and drug enforcement agencies.

Davis cited his own cooperation with government narcotics officers in Mexico and Southeast Asia, sources of heroin, with Interpol, an international police force, with the California Narcotics Intelligence Network (CNIN) and with the National Drug Administration, "one of the few federal administrations I would keep," he said to audience laughter and applause.

Pamphlets, bumper stickers and match books passed out at the luncheon advertised the We T.I.P. statewide toll-free telephone number — (800) 472-7785.

Informants are promised total anonymity. A We T.I.P. telephone operator answers calls with "Please do not give your name," takes information from the tipper, and assigns him or her a code number.

If information leads to both arrest and conviction of drug criminals, We T.I.P. will place notices in newspapers that an award awaits pickup at the post office by the informant with a particular code number.

Assessment appeals pile up quickly

County property owners vexed with their hiked assessed valuations this year are stepping up the pace in the filing of appeals.

A total of 71 had been filed with the clerk of the Board of Supervisors by closing time Friday in Santa Barbara.

Deadline for filing appeals is Aug. 29 at 5 p.m.

The clerk's office said a large number of appeals forms taken out have not yet been filed.

Hearings by the assessment appeals board of the county are to start in the fall.

Carpenteria and Goleta appeals continue to mount from the South Coast area.

Isla Vista man found murdered

Another "hitch hike murder" involving an Isla Vista resident — this time a young man — has been uncovered.

Sheriff's investigators said a man identified as Gary R. Longstreet, 26, a former Michigan resident who had been residing in Isla Vista, was found slain beside a Goleta Valley freeway offramp.

Friends said they last saw Longstreet Wednesday night when he left his apartment to hitch hike to San Francisco to pick up some personal items to bring back to Isla Vista.

His throat had been slashed as he evidently sought a ride at the Fairview Ave. ramp. A backpack he was known to have been carrying was missing.

Earlier this year bodies of two UC Santa Barbara co-eds were found in South Coast areas after they had left the Isla Vista area on hitch hiking trips.

Man sues deprogrammer for alleged imprisonment

Alleged false imprisonment of a member of the Brotherhood of the Sun, which operates produce markets and farm properties in several county locations, has resulted in the filing of charges against Ted Patrick, widely-known deprogrammer.

Criminal charges against Patrick and five co-defendants were filed by the Los Angeles County District Attorney's office on the basis of allegations by Dennis Hauswirth, a Brotherhood member.

Hauswirth told detectives of the alleged de-programming by Patrick at a West Hollywood home last fall. The de-programming was assertedly attempted to get young Hauswirth to give up his connections with the Brotherhood, which has headquarters in Santa Barbara.

Co-defendants include Hauswirth's parents and three others. Patrick and the parents are charged with falsely imprisoning the 23-year-old Hauswirth and with conspiracy. Three others are charged similarly.

Attorney Robert Goodwin, of Santa Barbara, counsel for the Brotherhood, said the filed charges supports the contention that "my client was harmed."

HOW I LOST 119 POUNDS

The true story of Esther Azevedo . . . as told to John Bentley

I used to weigh 270 pounds. I was ashamed of myself. I made excuses not to go places with my husband. I wore only tennis shoes because my feet were always swollen from carrying all that weight.

Here I am after losing 119 pounds. My daughter Pamela holds a dress I once wore. Look how big it is! Just think, I used to fit in that dress, but no more.

I was so fat I could not even cross my legs. Oh, I tried diets. All of them. I would lose 15 or 20 pounds then I was so hungry I would eat more and put the weight right back on.

One day I saw an ad for Dr. Pyzer. I was skeptical but my husband said go ahead and make an appointment so I started under Dr. Pyzer's program.

My treatment started on the Friday before Memorial Day. The following Tuesday I had lost 11 pounds! Less than 8 months later I have lost 119 pounds and am still losing. I've been reborn.

My husband and kids brag about me. When my friends see me now they exclaim "I don't believe it." But it's true. 119 pounds and the best part is that I was under the care of a medical doctor.

Going to Dr. Pyzer was one of the greatest decisions of my life. I would recommend this program to anyone who needs to lose weight.

More than 150 dead or missing after quake strikes Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — More than 150 persons were reported dead or missing today in a powerful earthquake and tidal wave that struck Indonesia's Eastern islands. A government official said the quake may have killed more persons than the 1976 tremor that left 500 dead on the isle of Bali.

The latest official count in Jakarta said 72 persons died and 81 were reported missing after tidal waves swept the coastal areas of Bali, Lombok and Sumbawa — at some places reaching as far as three miles inland.

Government officials said the toll of dead may far exceed that figure as a search and rescue team left Jakarta for the eastern Indonesian island of Sumbawa Monday.

The government team left to lend airborne assistance to field workers searching for additional victims and assessing damage caused by the quake that hit the eastern part of the archipelago Friday, a government announcement said.

The team, led by Air-Marshall

Liddy moved for part in hunger strike

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, accused of "intimidating" fellow inmates into joining a hunger strike at the minimum security prison at Allenwood, Pa., has been transferred to the less friendly Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary.

A Lewisburg spokesman said Sunday a prison board will determine whether any action will be taken against Liddy and the 57 other Allenwood inmates sent to the maximum security prison Saturday for their parts in the strike.

Allenwood spokesman John Kilkeary said Liddy was among "a number of inmates suspected of intimidating others" into participating in the strike.

Kilkeary said he did not know whether the incident would affect Liddy's scheduled release on parole in September. Liddy was sentenced to 20 years for his role in Watergate, but President Carter reduced the sentence to eight years.

Kilkeary said the transfers will remain in effect at least until proceedings this week.

"A board probably will review each individual case to determine if they will stay at Lewisburg, be transferred to another facility or back to Allenwood," he said. "They are setting up a preliminary schedule now."

Kilkeary said the strike protesting the jail's service, job assignments and working conditions began Tuesday with a few inmates, then grew to include all 514 prisoners. He said it ended at lunch Saturday.

The inmates had been negotiating with prison officials and Superintendent L. Eldon Jensen agreed to examine several of the complaints and rule on them later.

Assistant jail superintendent, Michael Pringle, denied that anything was wrong with the food. He called it "good chow" and said it is eaten also by the prison staff.

The hunger strike was the third — and longest — at Allenwood this year. Last January, inmates staged a five-meal hunger strike and Liddy participated in a 24-hour hunger strike in July to protest living conditions.

You know, I didn't know what a "linear" speaker was until I walked into STEREO EFFECTS this week. I find these "ultra linear" speakers are on sale through Labor Day. You can save $100 to $300; I also found a whole lot of recording tapes. This neat shop has some far out equipment. They offer a free turntable calibration lube and stylus check. Why not come in and say "hello" ... they will play your kind of music — and I guarantee it will sound great.

"Hair, Hair, The Gang's all Hair." This should be the theme song for all the stylists at "PLAZA HAIR FASHIONS." Their job is to get rid of some of it. Why, they even do men's styling. PLAZA HAIR FASHIONS also has an electrologist by appointment, to remove unwanted areas of hair permanently, by a blend method of current. She is licensed by the State of California. They also feature a full line of Redken Retail products. One of which will be a special feature the week beginning August 22, 1977 — come in and check this out, you can save some money on a different product each week.

I just love walking into the McFARLANE'S CANDY SHOP. It usually has a cake baking aroma. I gain a pound every time I breathe deep. JoAnn stocks all sorts of goodies for home cake decorators too, boxes and boxes of them. Forest Service leads assault on northern fire

United Press International

The Forest Service directed an aerial attack on the 46,000-acre Hog Fire in northern California's Klamath National Forest late Sunday when the smoke cleared enough to allow the tankers to get over the flames.

Rangers said the planes dropped 25,000 gallons of retardant on the fire late in the afternoon.

The fire, started by lightning, has raged through the rugged timber country for 11 days. A force of 5,400 fire fighters has been pressed into duty in an effort to stop the flames.

During the weekend firemen dug lines on the north end of the Crowds of Presley fans may limit cemetery hours

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The crush of fans mourning Elvis Presley has been so great Forest Hill Cemetery officials may have to limit hours sharply for fans visiting the superstar's burial place.

More than 200,000 persons have come from all over the country to see Presley's casket, entombed Thursday in a large gray marble mausoleum. Guards stand at locked doors and permit visitors to get no closer to the building than 30 feet.

Presley's death Tuesday at the age of 42 sparked a pilgrimage of mourners from hundreds of miles away. Many came with no money or place to sleep when they learned of the death of their idol. Some slept in cars parked outside the cemetery gates.

"If it continues like it did today, we'll be forced to shut the cemetery except for a few short hours each day," said Forest Hill's general superintendent, Ralph Davis.

He said the fans have been "marvelously" orderly, but Forest Hill has other burials scheduled today and throughout the week that cannot be interrupted.

Heavy traffic was reported Sunday along Elvis Presley Boulevard between the cemetery and Presley's Graceland Mansion, where three teen-age girls were struck by a hit-and-run driver early Thursday. Two were killed and the third, 17-year-old Tammy Baiter of St. Clair, Mo., remained hospitalized today in critical condition with a crushed hip.

A preliminary hearing was set today in city court for 18-year-old Treatise Wheeler of Memphis, the driver of the car that plowed into the mourners. Wheeler is charged with second degree murder and drunken driving.

A judge revoked $20,000 bond set earlier for Wheeler and ordered him jailed without bail after Wheeler's mother told the judge, "Something's wrong with his mind."

Fans, many of them in tears, also gathered this weekend at Graceland, where guards briefly allowed some of them inside the gates to photograph the stately Presley home.

Secret 'Sam' tapings checked by prison

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prison officials have begun an investigation to find out how 10 hours' worth of statements by "Son of Sam" suspect David Berkowitz could have been taped secretly in the suspect's bare room at a Brooklyn hospital.

On Saturday, literary agent Scott Meredith said someone connected to the case was trying to sell him the tapes purportedly made in the hospital where the suspected .44-caliber killer is being held under heavy guard for psychiatric observation.

Berkowitz already has been indicted in three of the "Son of Sam" ambushes and was expected to be indicted for the remaining three this week.

A Correction Department spokesman said Brian Malone, the agency's inspector general, went to the hospital Sunday to begin the tape investigation.

No formal funeral for Groucho

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — They came to pay their respects, not to mourn him. The wisecracking comedian, the master of the one-liner, Groucho Marx, would have despised a formal memorial service.

"We talked about the good times," Marx' son Arthur said after the informal service for the comedian Sunday, at Arthur's Bel Air home.

"We are so pleased that we did it this way rather than at a church or a synagogue where it would be a cold service conducted by somebody who didn't really know him," Arthur said.

"He wasn't religious, but he was a really good person."

Marx used to joke about wanting to be buried "near a straight man," but a family spokesman said the comedian's remains would be cremated as Groucho had instructed. Groman Mortuary said the date of the cremation would not be announced.

Among about two dozen persons attending the service were Bill Marx, son of Harpo; grandson Andrew Marx; and Nat Perrin, who brought the Marx Brothers to Hollywood.

Also, writer Julius Epstein; producer Irwin Allen; Eddie Buzzell, who directed several Marx Brothers' films, including "Day at the Circus" and "Go West," and Irving Drecher, who wrote several Marx Brothers scripts.

Erin Fleming, the red-haired, 37-year-old ex-showgirl who was Marx' constant companion and secretary for the past seven years and was locked in a legal battle with Arthur for conservatorship of Groucho's estate, was absent.

She told UPI she did not "feel up to" going to what she called the "reception," but evaded questions about whether she was invited.

However, she said "dozens" of show business associates of Marx suggested that they "have a party with lots of laughter the way Groucho would want it."

"Groucho specifically insisted that he wanted no tears when he died and would have no funeral," she said. "He detested funerals. He thought they were barbaric."

Arthur Marx said the friends that dropped by talked about good times and laughed a lot. He said people would remember Groucho because he made them laugh.

One friend recalled that on his 82nd birthday, Marx was asked how he would like to be remembered.

"Alive," he answered. "If not that way, then dead."

Marx had been in failing health for months before his death from pneumonia, a mild form of pneumonia, at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center where he had been hospitalized since June. His vital signs became unstable last Thursday and he died the next evening at the age of 86.

Marcos relaxes martial laws, frees prisoners

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Ferdinand Marcos today ordered the release of convicted and suspected government opponents and a massive relaxation of the tough martial laws he imposed five years ago.

"I have no intention of leaving as a legacy to our people the institution of a command society," Marcos told the opening session of the World Law Conference, whose main topic is to be human rights.

Marcos said he was granting amnesty for those convicted of subversion and ordering the release of all martial-law prisoners, who have not yet been tried or placed under the jurisdiction of military tribunals.

An overnight curfew and international travel ban on Filipinos that were part of the martial laws had been lifted as of Sunday and some local elections will be held within a year, Marcos said.

The elections for provincial governors and city and town mayors would be the first local balloting held in the Philippines since 1969, two years before Marcos proclamation of martial law.

Oil tankers loading again in Alaska

VALDEZ, Alaska (UPI) — Oil tankers are taking on their cargo of Alaskan crude for the first time since "human error" shut down the trans-Alaska pipeline nearly a week ago.

The Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. began pumping 430,000 barrels of North Slope oil into the Overseas Alaska on Sunday night as the Exxon New Orleans prepared to move into the Valdez terminal berth when the Alaska finishes loading today.

Feds think missing gifts may be in Nixon crates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department wants permission to examine crates of Nixon materials to determine if they contain "missing" gifts given the Nixon family by foreign leaders, the Washington Post reported today.

Poor record keeping may account for some of the unaccounted gifts in the Government Services Administration collection, but officials believe the Nixon family retained custody of some of the presents, the newspaper said.

Federal law requires the president and his family to give the government foreign gifts worth more than $50.

Evan Dobelle, chief of protocol for the Carter administration, is scheduled Wednesday to ask federal court Judge Aubrey E. Robinson for permission to pick through some 200 packing crates of Nixon materials in government storage, the Post said.

According to GSA records, about 2,000 foreign gifts valued at an estimated $2 million were presented to Nixon during his presidency, the Post said.

Among the gifts retained by the Nixon family, the newspaper said, is one described by the White House gift unit as a "very fine hand-painted miniature portrait of the President done on ivory ... 18 karat gold oval frame on easel back surrounded with golden leaves and branches, many 'blossoms' of single and clustered turquoise and sapphire stones."

Nixon's wife Pat informed the White House gifts unit two days after Nixon's resignation in 1974 that she would keep the gift from the shah of Iran.

The newspaper said earlier efforts to locate missing gifts given the Nixon family were thwarted by the legal controversy over the Nixon tapes and documents. The Supreme Court recently ruled the Nixon materials belonged to the government, not the ex-president.

Banking panel to probe Lance's financial affairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee plans to investigate the "ethics and soundness" of banking practices in light of Budget Director Bert Lance's financial dealings.

Some of the apparently legal practices Lance engaged in "go to the very heart of the ethical, efficient, and sound conduct of the American banking system," said committee Chairman William Proxmire Sunday.

"Our committee will attempt to find out both how widespread these kinds of practices are and what regulatory and-or legal reforms are needed to end the abuses," the Wisconsin Democrat said.

Proxmire said the investigation will delve into a number of areas: Compensating and correspondent bank balances, loan collateral, overdraft policies, failure of bank officials to file reports on borrowings and business ventures, and different interest rates for different customers.

"The report of the Comptroller of the Currency on Budget Director Lance raises a number of serious questions about both the ethics and soundness of banking practices," Proxmire said.

His statement gave no indication that the committee plans to probe Lance's activities. The Senate Government Affairs Committee has scheduled the start of that investigation Sept. 7.

Although the Comptroller of the Currency said last week Lance's complex banking practices did not involve any criminal wrongdoing, Proxmire said the report raised a number of questions:

—Was there an understanding that Lance would get a loan from the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York in return for Lance's bank — the National Bank of Georgia — leaving 20 per cent of the loan amount in the New York bank?

—Why were neither Lance's loan from Manufacturers Hanover Trust and First National Bank of Chicago fully collateralized or insured with pledged collateral?

—Why were overdrafts in Lance's account and that of his family in his own bank larger than the certificates of deposit on file with the bank and why did the accounts remain interest free for a considerable time?

—Why was Lance allowed not to report 50 loans to either the National Bank of Georgia or the Calhoun First National Bank while he was an officer of the banks?

—Why could Lance borrow large sums at the prime interest rate plus a small premium when such interest rates are not routinely available even to affluent borrowers with fully collateralized loans?

"These examples from the report indicate that present bank practices may give special advantages to bankers either from their own banks as insiders or from other banks with whom their banks have a correspondent relationship," Proxmire said.

Prison gang members rip apart facility in week-long rampage

TRACY (UPI) — Members of the prison-gang Nuestra Familia went on a week-long rampage smashing out 1,000 windows and burning everything in their cells but their shorts, officials at Deuel Vocational Institute revealed Sunday.

Deuel spokesman Larry Hunter said the demonstration by about 135 members of the Latino gang began last Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. on a "pre-arranged signal" and continued unabated until Friday when it subsided, finally ending on Saturday.

They "smashed windows, broke out lighting, tore out wiring, plugged up toilets and burned anything burnable" said Hunter.

The inmates were protesting their segregation from the rest of the inmate population following an incident June 6 when four prisoners were injured in a clash between members of the gang and white prisoners.

Because of security demands imposed by the segregated lockup, visiting time, out-of-cell program time and time in the prison yard were all reduced leading to the demonstration.

Clash between Franchise Tax Board, administrator over power on horizon

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Franchise Tax Board and its powerful veteran chief staff administrator seem headed for another potentially bone-shaking confrontation over who is boss.

Newly at the edge of the prolonged fray is Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

In recent months, the three-member board has succeeded in trimming the authority of Executive Officer Martin Huff, for 14 years the man in charge of the vast state income tax collection system.

(The executive officer is unique in state government because he is the single non-elected state official who can be fired only by two-thirds vote of the Senate. Such protection is intended to insulate tax administration from politics.)

One member, William Bennett, has charged that Huff and his staff flatly "resist supervision" by the board. Chairman Kenneth Cory, the state controller, terms the issue delicately as "organizational difficulties."

But the soft-spoken Huff, one of the most powerful and influential figures in state government, says he sees "no conflict" between himself and the board.

"To the best of my knowledge and belief, and we've endeavored very hard to do so, we've complied with every request that the board has made," Huff says.

The board consists of Democrats Cory, Bennett and state Finance Director Roy M. Bell.

It is scheduled to meet Thursday on what the only agenda item lists vaguely as "administrative organization and personnel assignments."

Cory refused to discuss publicly what he had in mind when he called the meeting.

He said the board, because of "either organizational or communications problems" has found that sometimes "our instructions are not being obeyed or they are being misunderstood."

Approach of school start tax relief plan 'urgent'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California schools open in two weeks and the chairman of a joint legislative committee on school finance says that makes a compromise with a major property tax relief proposal even more urgent.

Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, said in an interview the lawmakers working on both plans were deadlocked but would try again this week to smooth out differences.

"We're pretty much stymied," Greene said in an interview. "But we still have to find out where property tax is coming from before we can act."

Among other bills on crowded legislative calendars are ones to stave off a possible $1 billion increase in federal unemployment payments for California businesses and to deny probation to persons convicted of injuring the elderly or severely handicapped.

Lawmakers plan to wind up business by Sept. 15 in the first year of the legislative session.

But Greene said even if a compromise on the two major spending bills of the year is reached at the last minute schools would suffer.

"School is about to start, and we can't come in after that with some of our programs," he said. "The governor has said he doesn't want to see those bills unless they come to him together and will veto them if they are passed as they now stand."

Greene added that certain provisions designed to "recapture" some tax revenues from wealthy school districts and share them with poor school districts would be impossible to implement after the school year starts.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s top finance experts have said the two plans would push the state budget into the red in two years, forcing a tax increase. The governor said he is "redoubling" his efforts to block any new tax levies.

The Senate Industrial Relations Committee will hold a special hearing Monday to reconsider a bill the Brown administration says must be passed to avoid a $1 billion federal unemployment tax increase for California business.

The committee two weeks ago defeated the Assembly-passed measure (AB644) by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, which would have brought state unemployment laws into conformity with federal statutes.

The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee Monday afternoon planned a hearing on a Senate-passed measure that would prevent judges from placing on probation persons convicted of injuring the elderly or handicapped.

The bill (SB370) by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, would deny probation to any person convicted of injuring anyone who is older than 60, blind, a paraplegic or quadriplegic during a crime.

How to keep your car cooking with oil

FLOWER MOUND, Tex. (UPI) — In 1972 Richard Clem announced the invention of a way to operate automobile engines on cooking oil.

He was still making that claim today, even though his first prototype motor fell apart and he had been "strung along" by at least 15 companies before he found financial backing.

Clem, 48, a heavy equipment operator for the city of Dallas and part-time inventor, says if the automobile industry adopts his invention motorists could change the eight gallons of vegetable oil only every 150,000 miles and never buy any gas.

"We could get away from this expensive gasoline," Clem said, and eliminate pollution.

Clem said he uses vegetable oil because his motor runs at 300 degrees — a temperature where water has boiled away and conventional motor oil breaks down. Though he won't divulge many details of the engine, a 12-volt battery apparently is the only other source of power.

When Clem finished his first vegetable oil engine in 1972, he mapped a 600-mile test trip to El Paso for the first engine he had financed through his earnings. But he only made it as far as Abilene before the "shafts and everything bent."

He blamed the failure on poor construction, too small a shaft and the use of chains instead of gears. Undaunted, he decided to try again, but said, "I needed money to build this thing better."

Neither the automobile industry nor the 15 other companies he wrote — some as far away as Taiwan — were interested in financing a prototype and then manufacturing it.

"They said this thing is not feasible according to the laws of physics," Clem said. "But I said, 'Well it does (work), and if it doesn't work like I said it does, you don't have to give me anything.'"

High coffee prices aim of producers' meet

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Representatives of Latin American coffee-producing nations gathered in Mexico City today to discuss ways of keeping the price of their exports high.

Mexican Coffee Institute Director Fausto Cantu Pena said a main topic of the two-day session will be recent proposals by Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo for cooperation among coffee producers.

"President Lopez Portillo said coffee prices should have a 'floor and a roof.'"

California's drought endangers shrimp species

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The West Coast's two-year drought is pushing the 10-legged California fresh-water shrimp near extinction.

Biologists said Sunday the shrimp cannot be found in their usual habitat — the salmon streams running into San Francisco Bay. The streams have dried up, leaving only stagnating pools.

The shrimp have been around a million years and could have "toughed it out" if man in recent years had not pumped out so much water from the streams, Dr. Joel Hedgpeth said.

To save the species, biologists scooped up a hundred shrimp last April. Half were put in a tank at the Oakland Museum.

The tank was supposed to be sterile, but hiding in the vegetation were eggs of the Japanese coo carp. The carp hatched, and ate the shrimp.

The other half were taken to the University of California's marine laboratory at Bodega Bay. So far, this group seems to be surviving, but it is difficult to take a census.

Interesting
on license

Once I get my driver's license renewed, the Department of Motor Vehicles is not exactly my favorite place to hang out. (Though I must say the one in Lompoc has some very nice people working there.)

For one thing, each time I drive into that parking lot the old "Pavlov's dog" theory takes effect: my hands get clammy, my pulse accelerates and I'm altogether a mess.

You might say it's like returning to the scene of the crime.

In the second place, each time I drive into that parking lot I'm afraid someone of authority is going to glance out the window, get a load of the two crumpled back fenders on my car and revoke my license forever.

The truth is, those fenders were crumpled by two different hit-and-run drivers in two different parking lots — and Old Bogey was the one who had parked the car there.

The reason I was there, however, was to see if they could do something about my picture. Which sounds pretty ego-ridden, I know, but if you'd seen it you'd understand.

It was just before Old Bogey and I went for our evening constitutional around the block that I pulled my renewed license out of the mailbox and became convulsed right on the spot.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked as the tears rolled down my cheeks.

Laughing too hard to talk, I just showed the license to him. He began laughing too. But he stopped and I didn't. I kept on laughing around most the block as we walked.

What had obviously happened was that the nice lady at the Department of Motor Vehicles who had taken my picture must have asked me a question.

Apparently I had not known the answer (not at all unusual), shrugged my shoulders and pulled down the corners of my mouth in my best "Search Me" expression just as she snapped the picture. Voila! Instant distortion.

So I went back to M. Mandibles, Badge 903.

"I suppose you got lots of complaints from people about the pictures on their driver's license?" I inquired of her brightly, thinking to be on pretty firm ground there.

"Not really," she replied.

It became evident the direct approach was the best. So I showed her the reason for my visit.

"I guess you wouldn't want to be stuck with that until 1981," she pleasantly agreed, immediately doing something about it.

She didn't ask me any questions before she snapped the picture this time and, though I don't expect even she can make me look like Zsa Zsa Gabor, what turns out is bound to be better than the last.

I've had some interesting pictures on my driver's license.

The last one was all right. But the time before that—

The day I went to get my license renewed in La Mesa was a scorcher, as the days almost always are toward the end of July.

Consequently, people wear clothing as cool as they can find and as little as they can decently get away with.

The blouse I wore was a little off-the-shoulder model I'd found hanging way back in my closet. Probably Circa 1955.

In spite of the same old tied-up-in-knots routine, everything went well enough. Soon the ordeal was over, and I went my way completely dismissing that portion of the day and going on to the next. When the license arrived in the mail, we remarked that for that type of picture it really was quite good. So clear, too.

The only thing was, it seemed as though I was wearing no clothes. But we knew differently.

Some time passed without having to show my license for identification so I'd really forgotten all about it. Until the night I was driving down Woodside Avenue in Lakeside and a red light flashed behind me.

"Oh, dear," I panicked, pulling into a shopping center parking lot with the red light right behind me. "What now?"

The officer readily answered that question with one of his own: "Did you know your left tail light was out?"

Of course I didn't.

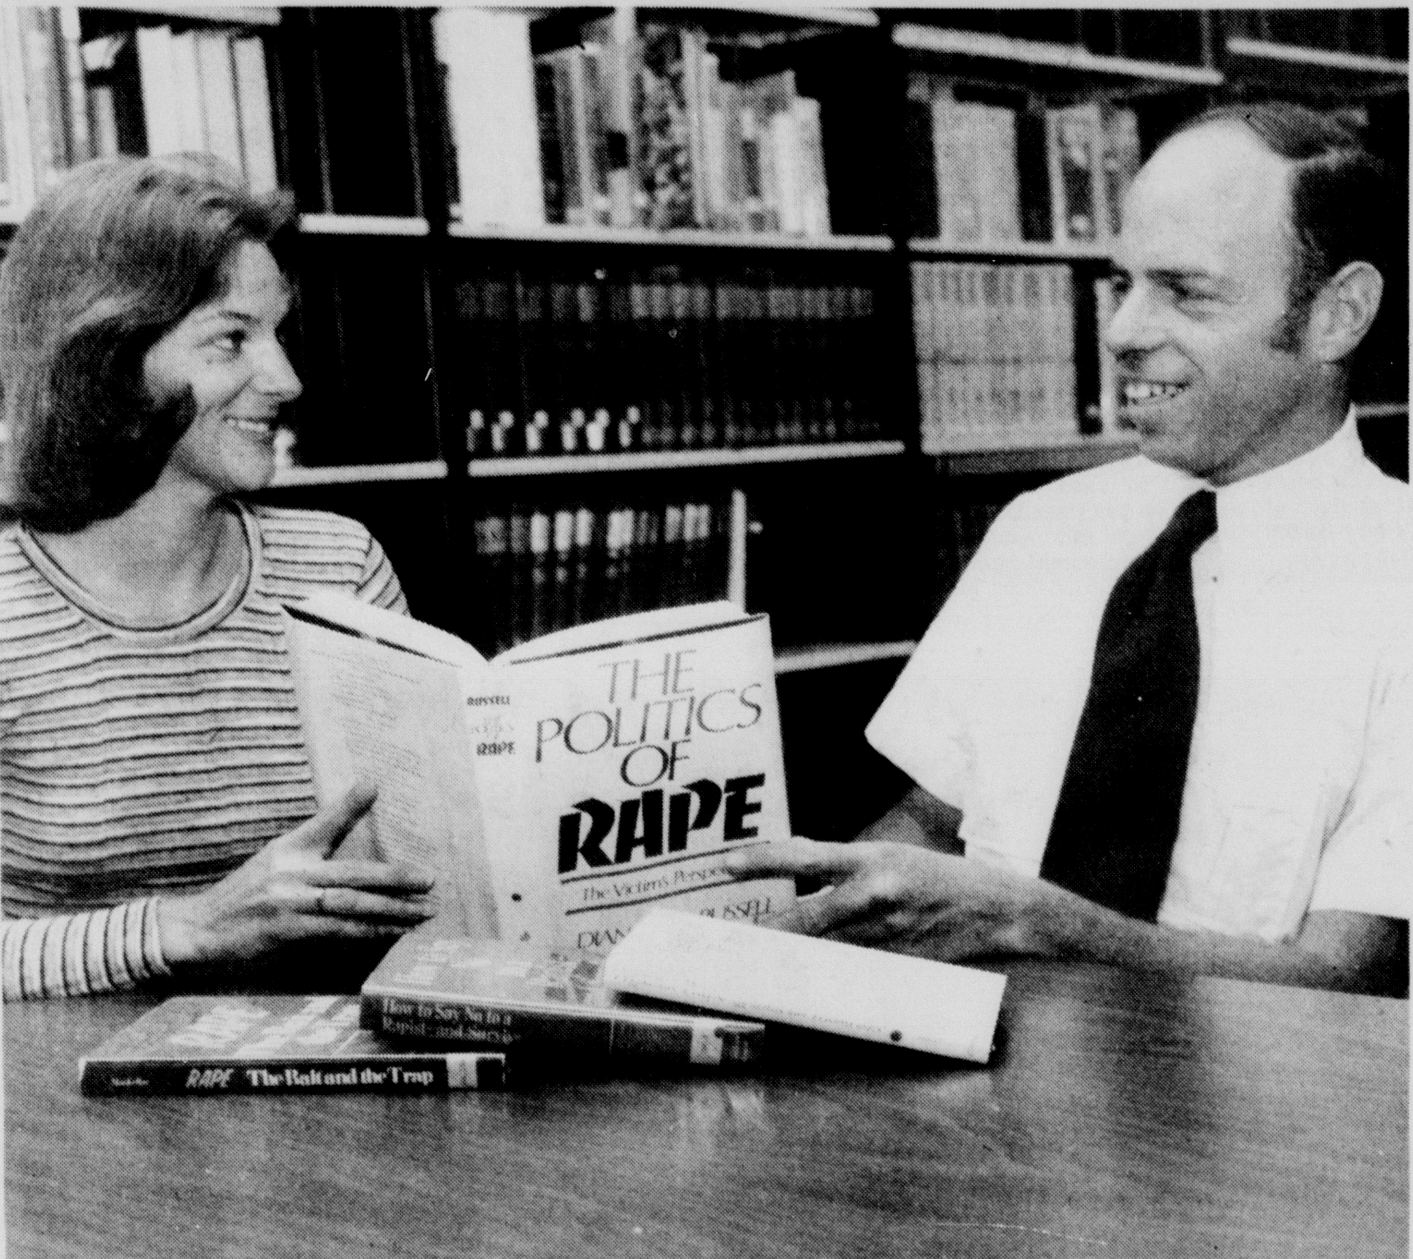

Then he asked for my driver's license and took it with him around to the rear of my car.

He was gone an awfully long time. Looking around, I could see him studying my license. And when he finally returned and handed the license back to me I knew why.

"How did such a thing happen?" he wanted to know, shaking his head and pointing to my picture.

"And at the Department of Motor Vehicles, yet!"

Yes, I've had some interesting pictures on my driver's license.

DEBORAH MILLET, director of the Lompoc Rape Crisis Center, discusses books the center presented to the Lompoc Library, with adult services librarian James Russell. The books were purchased with money awarded the center in 1976 by the Boeing Employee's Good Neighbor Fund which, this year, added another $660 with which to purchase educational films on the subject of rape. The books donated by the center to be made available to the community are: "The Charge is Rape" by Gerald Aster, "How to Say No to a Rapist and Survive" by Fredrick Storaska, "Rape" by Jean Scott MacKellar, "Against Rape" by Andrea Medea and "The Politics of Rape" by Diane E.H. Russell.

Reading Club
party plans

Members of the Lompoc Library's "Catch a Dragon by the Tale" 1977 summer vacation reading club are urged to pick up their free tickets immediately in the Library's Children's Department for the "Dragon Tamer's" final club meeting and party.

"Dragon Hunters" are reminded that they must have read at least one book in the club to be eligible to attend the party Wednesday in the "Dragon's Lair" (library multi-use room).

Members may attend either the morning session beginning at 10:30 a.m. or the afternoon session at 1:30 p.m., but must have a ticket to be admitted to one or the other. The parties will each last approximately one and one-half hours.

Members of the Village Branch Library's summer reading club will celebrate "Dragon Taming" Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Village Library and may pick up their free tickets from Mrs. Frank, branch librarian.

Party plans include door prize drawings, announcement of the winners of the libraries' pet pose contests and "Draw a Dragon" poster contest, a dragon-taming game, screening of two colorful films: "Dragon Stew" and "Repunzel," distribution of reading club materials members have earned, and "Dragon Food" (white, yellow, and green refreshments).

Party-goers are also invited to come dressed in "Dragon Colors" — red, green, or yellow! Lompoc Friends of the Library are paying for the film rental and providing the refreshments. If further information is needed, please contact the Children's Department at the Lompoc Library by phoning 6-3477.

Dear Abby

Chewing over
chick tooth dispute

DEAR ABBY: Someone asked if chickens had teeth, and you said they didn't.

Essentially you were correct, but if you want to get technical, every chicken is born with a single tooth. It's called an "egg tooth," and is located on the end of the upper beak. This egg tooth is the means by which a chick breaks the eggshell to gain entrance into the world. The tooth falls off a couple of days after hatching.

HENRY HAHN

DEAR HENRY: You certainly laid a new one on me with that story about the egg tooth. Sure it's not a yolk?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went to a restaurant with my best friend and her husband, who I'll call "Al." The bill came to $55, and the men paid the bill with $60.

The waiter didn't return with the change, so Al called him back and asked for the change. The waiter looked puzzled, but he gave him the change and a dirty look.

Well, this couple asked us to go on a vacation with them, and we said we'd go, but that was before we knew that Al didn't believe in tipping. (He says as a matter of principle he refuses to pay somebody else's help).

We'd really like to vacation with them because we enjoy their company, but my husband isn't sure he can put up with the embarrassment of being with a guy who refuses to tip.

Answer soon because we don't know what to do.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: If you enjoy their company, go! Your husband can tip for HIS share of the check while Al sticks to his principles.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the bride-to-be who wanted her real father, instead of her stepfather, to give her away, even though she said that her real father had disappeared during the most important years of her life, and her stepfather had been more like a "real" father to her.

I had that decision to make a few years ago, and the circumstances were identical. My parents were divorced when I was 2 years old. (My father left my mother for another woman.) I figured that my real father had already "given me away" once, so when it came time for me to marry, I chose my stepfather to give me away. I have never regretted it.

NO REGRETS

DEAR ABBY: Your letter asking for consideration of the deaf prompts this letter. Please do as much for the blind.

Blind people are frequently treated as though they were invisible! Some people will greet their guide, and not even say hello to the blind person. This is very rude, and makes the blind person feel that he isn't even present. The blind feel, hear and have very acute perception.

Ignorance is no excuse for rudeness. Please ask your readers to speak to a blind person when he enters a room. Remember — he is exactly like a sighted person, only he can't see.

ARLENE

DEAR ARLENE: Consider it done.

Experimental plan for H.S.

Santa Ynez Valley High School will provide an experimental program at the beginning of the fall semester Sept. 6 by offering 8 o'clock classes for students who may be involved in a sports program, who need to work in the early afternoon or who are participating in a work experience program, Principal Manuel J. Silva has announced.

"This type of scheduling will make it possible for students not to miss some of their afternoon classes if they are involved in school activities," Silva said.

Classes will meet daily for a 45 minute period. The principal said students must provide their own transportation to the early classes as buses will operate on a regular morning schedule.

Registration was taken during the spring semester for the early classes. However, the principal noted, some classes are still not filled and students may wish to select an 8 a.m. class during registration on Friday, Sept. 2.

According to the principal, the following classes will be offered as "Block O" at 8 a.m. beginning with the fall term: auto body, paint and preparation, W. Faulkner, teacher; senior college preparation English, Gloria Fawcett, teacher; oceanography, D. Kuehn, teacher; American history, Iain McPherson, teacher; jazz choir, Dan Neece, teacher; algebra II, Eugene Nelson, teacher; badminton, William Shortell, teacher, and American government, Frank Whittington, teacher.

Outreach Van now in Valley

The Allan Hancock College Community Outreach station wagon will be stationed at two locations in the Santa Ynez Valley Tuesday to allow persons to become more familiar with the college's service, it has been announced.

The station wagon will be parked from 10 a.m. to noon across from the Solvang Post office on Alisal Road and from 12:30 to 2 p.m. across from the Santa Ynez Post Office on Sagunto Street.

College officials said prospective students may talk with campus representatives about details of the various curriculum and services at the college.

Mrs. Trudeau said in an interview Friday a reconciliation was "what we've always wanted. We've been working in this direction and I am praying it will work out again."

Circulation panel to meet on comprehensive planning

The circulation subcommittee of the Santa Ynez Valley Advisory Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Leslie W. Anderson Library on the Laurel Street campus of the Solvang Elementary School. The public has been invited to attend the session. Chief topic of discussion is the proposed circulation element of the comprehensive general plan which is encountering opposition from a number of Santa Ynez Valley community organizations and governmental agencies.

Chief objections stem from plans to redesign a number of existing main roads, including Baseline Avenue, Alamo Pintado Road, Sagunto and Edison Streets in Santa Ynez and Highway 246 (Mission Drive) through the heart of Solvang into four-lane arterials.

Subcommittee chairperson Lorna Pinassi said the public is invited to attend the meeting and to offer input on the road development plans.

A public hearing on the circulation element of the general plan is scheduled for October.

Youth job funds available

Santa Barbara County has been designated to receive $589,512 in youth employment funds, Congressman Bob Lagomarsino announced today.

The funds are part of $489 million provided nationwide for community conservation and improvement projects and youth employment and training programs approved by Congress earlier this year.

"Young people have one of the highest unemployment rates in the nation," observed Lagomarsino. "These two programs, along with the Young Adult Conservation Corps created by the same bill, should help ease the problem."

Council names delegates to coalition meet

Mrs. Eloise Raines and Mrs. Gertrude Peterson have been named by the Santa Ynez Valley Senior Advisory Council as delegates to a meeting of the newly formed Santa Barbara County Senior Action Coalition to be held Sept. 22 at 2 p.m. in the clubhouse of Rancho Club Mobile Estates in Buellton.

Valley council alternates selected were J. Campbell Carey and Dorothy Sage.

Council members chosen with chairman Bill Benner to serve on a committee which will attend a meeting called by Attorney General Evelle J. Younger to discuss topics of interest to seniors were Lillian Davis, Dr. Melton Burns, Betty Paine and Mrs. Raines.

Fast, fair, friendly help for Officer Payne Green.

Officer Payne Green of Santa Barbara is famous for helping others. And he was trying to save the homes of neighbors when his own house caught fire. He lost his home and everything in it.

This time it was his turn to get help fast. Less than 48 hours afterward, a team of concerned Farmers people rushed to the scene and handed Officer Green an insurance check for his home.

Plus money for food and lodging until the Green family has resettled. As soon as an inventory of home furnishings and other possessions is completed, Farmers will issue Green another check.

It is hard to replace what it took the Green family years to build. But they can do it...with the fast financial help they received from Farmers.

Lompoc sports fans make SportsFest a success

By TERRY DAY

It has been said that there are only two things certain in life — death and taxes.

Well, we would like to amend that to read death, taxes and Lompoc sports fans.

Why add sports fans? For those who attended the Sports Festival yesterday at Ryon Park the answer is quite simple.

Without the fan the ability to rebuild the storage shed that was destroyed by fire would be a dream. And without the fan the Sports Festival would not have been a success.

So, without naming all the names, everyone who was present yesterday and chipped in to help the youth athletic programs, give yourself a pat on the back — you deserve it.

It seems when food, music, good weather and sports all come together on the same day, Lompocans don't roll their eyes and let it go by.

Probably the most popular event was the 'dunk booth' in which Chuck Ward, Joe Valencia and Howard Whitaker, among others got wet in the name of charity.

Ward was probably the most fashionable of the targets.

Bedecked in a polyester outfit (washable, we hope), Ward braved a barrage of baseballs before going under.

Though Valencia was more casually attired in a swim suit and T-shirt, the results were the same.

It was a festive atmosphere, almost equal to the Flower Festival but with a definite purpose.

In talking with Leo Aragon, chairman of the festival, he seemed pleased with the general turnout and said the final tally of funds received would take a few days.

"We won't know how much we made until all the clubs involved report back to us," Aragon said.

Regardless of the overall amount, one thing is for sure, Lompocans take pride in the fact they care about their youth athletics.

Mel Bland and Jan Jeffers have become fixtures on the softball diamonds around Lompoc, so much so that their combined talents have sometimes been taken for granted.

When the Dynamic Duo left for Binghamton, N.Y. for the Amateur Softball Assn. Senior girls' tourney not too long ago, they were going to play pivotal roles as the Sepulveda Raiders went on to win their second national championship, over Oklahoma City.

It was the third consecutive year the Raiders had made it to the championship round.

The Raiders were runners-up in 1975 before taking all the marbles in '76 and '77.

In game one, Jan pitched one-hit ball for five innings as the Raiders shelled the Texas state champions, 12-1.

Mel had a pretty good day at the plate, going 1-2 with two walks.

Game two saw Mel blast a home run, going 3-4, as the Raiders won, 11-4.

Larry Thomas of the Binghamton Sun-Bulletin described Mel "as the most feared hitter in the tournament."

"Most of the tournament girls have either seen or heard of the hard-hitting Bland. The respect she commands was evident two days ago (August 12), when dressed in casual clothes, she walked past a team clad in blue. It was only a whisper, but the team was obviously marveling over Bland's long-ball prowess."

Mel's home run in the second game cleared the fence, 225 feet from home plate, and rolled to a stop on a basketball court 22 feet from the fence.

In game three, Jan and Pam Titchner combined for a no-hitter against Washington, D.C.

Jan went on to pitch a shutout against Dallas, Texas, then gave up five hits in the championship game, as the Raiders won, 2-1.

In the seven games the Raiders won, Jan won three, did not give up an earned run, struck out 20, gave up 11 hits and walked seven.

In her spare time, Jan also went 4-11 at the plate for a .363 average.

Batting in the clean up spot for the Raiders, Mel rapped out eight hits in 17 trips for a .470 average.

The championship game was the last game for Jan and Mel as part of the Raiders girls' team.

This fall, Mel will enroll at Golden West Junior College, which won the national junior college title last year and Jan is headed for UCLA.

WE DO GET IDEAS: While in college at San Jose State, we would often turn on the AM dial and tune in Carter B. Smith, disc jockey for KNBR radio in San Francisco.

Carter B. has one of the largest T-shirt collections (880 at last count) in the world.

Most of Carter's T-shirts are donated through listeners. What he will do is wear the shirt throughout his afternoon show and announce to approximately 200,000 listeners who gave him the shirt and a story behind it.

Remembering this, we thought it would be a good idea to donate one of the Sports Festival T-shirts to "CB" along with the story of the recovery fund.

Last week we received a postcard from Carter B. Smith and he will be featuring the shirt on his show, December 15.

We only hope he pronounces it LOM-poke not Lom-POCK.

Seaver hurls Reds past Mets

United Press International

Tom Seaver shackled his ex-teammates on six hits and Dave Kingman, another "New York Met in exile," came off the bench to play the spoiler's role against the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

The Cardinals had won 12 of their last 18 games and posed a challenge to all the division leaders before Kingman blunted them Sunday with a towering grand-slam homer.

Seaver, now 14-5, scored a pair of runs, struck out 11 and walked only two in making his first New York appearance against his ex-mates. He got a standing ovation from the crowd before the game.

Phillies 7, Astros 3:

Steve Carlton put on a dazzling display of power pitching and hitting en route to his 18th victory, striking out 14 while extending his personal six-game hitting streak with a solo homer. Carlton, the major leagues' top winner, was helped by batterymate Tim Lincecum with a three-run homer in the fourth.

Giants 5, Pirates 4:

It was an especially bad day for the Pirates, who not only fell to 6½ games behind the Phillies, but also lost hard-hitting second baseman Rennie Stennett for the remainder of the season. Stennett suffered a dislocated ankle sliding into second base. Darrell Evans' two-run homer off reliever Rich Gossage snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning to give the Giants the victory.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 1:

Winning pitcher Rick Rhoden helped his own cause by going 3-for-4 including a solo homer and an RBI single. Rhoden, 148, homered in the second to give the Dodgers a 3-0 lead, but gave way to rookie reliever Lance Rautzhan in the ninth. Rautzhan notched his first major league save.

Expos 10, Braves 4:

Del Unser knocked in four runs with a homer, double and single, while Dave Cash and Chris Speier had two RBI apiece in the Expos' romp over the Braves. Don Stanhouse hurled 5 1-3 innings of one-hit relief for the victory.

DAN PETRY slides safely into third in yesterday's championship softball game at Ryon Park. The Heatwaves bested Petry and the Lompoc A's 4-2, for the B Division title in a softball tournament co-sponsored by the FCI and KNEZ radio in conjunction with the Mini-Sports Festival. Orcutt were the winners in the A Division.

"Brooksie" retires, Orioles lose to Twins

United Press International

While American League teams sweated and scrambled in August pennant pressure, the announcement of Brooks Robinson's retirement ended a glorious 23-year career.

"I once said that I would retire as manager when Brooks Robinson retired," said Baltimore Orioles' Manager Earl Weaver. "I guess I'll have to go back on that promise now. (But) I'll be in Cooperstown five years from now when Brooks is inducted into the Hall of Fame."

The Orioles announced before Sunday's 9-5 loss to Minnesota that at "his suggestion and with his consent," Robinson had joined the voluntarily retired list, allowing catcher Rick Dempsey to rejoin the roster after six weeks on the disabled list.

"I was planning to retire at the end of this season anyway," said Robinson. "I've just retired six weeks early...."

"He has been unquestionably the Orioles' most important and best-loved player and will never be replaced in the hearts of his fans," said Baltimore General Manager Hank Peters.

Lyman Bostock homered and drove in three runs and Roy Smalley capped a four-run sixth inning with an RBI single as Minnesota salvaged the final game of a three-game series.

Royals 6, Red Sox 4:

Reliever Bill Campbell walked pinch-hitter Joe Lahoud with the bases loaded in the eighth and Tom Poquette followed with a single to score two more as Kansas City won its fifth straight game and retained the lead in the West.

Yankees 2, Rangers 1:

Graig Nettles belted a solo homer and RBI double while Ron Guidry allowed only four Texas hits through seven innings, giving New York its eighth straight victory. Nettles' 29th homer helped the Yankees pull within a half

New set of Dolphin 'no names' pull upset, beat Cowboys 20-14

United Press International

When Don Shula's team dropped to 6-8 in 1976, some football writers quickly began chanting the Miami Dolphin's last rites, but they may have been a bit premature.

Saturday night, they defeated the Dallas Cowboys, 20-14, for their third straight pre-season triumph, and they did it with a new set of "no-names."

On offense, reserve quarterback Don Strock passed for two long touchdowns, both to fleet wide receiver Nat Moore, recalling the golden days of Griese to Warfield, and defensively, the game's key play was provided by one of the Dolphins' most anonymous players.

Defensive back Norris Thomas, a rookie from Southern Mississippi, stepped in front of Cowboys' receiver Golden Richards at the Dallas 29 and picked off a pass from backup quarterback Danny White late in the third quarter and scored untouched to bring the Dolphins to within 14-13 of Dallas.

A few minutes later, Strock, who played the entire contest, tossed a pass in the flat to Moore, who turned it into a 69-yard touchdown. Earlier in the evening Strock had teamed up with Moore on a 56-yard scoring play.

"This was a good game for us, because we stayed in there when we could have let it slip away from us," said Shula.

The Cowboys struck for 14 points in the last six seconds of the first half. Preston Pearson scored from the one with six seconds remaining following a 79-yard drive and, immediately after the kickoff, Charlie Waters intercepted a pass and lateraled to Cliff Harris, who scored.

Bengals 17, Lions 13:

Sub quarterback John Reaves hit Mike Voight with an insurance 9-yard TD midway through the third quarter, helping the Bengals raise their pre-season record to 2-1 in a nationally televised contest. Quarterback Gary Danielson rallied the Lions in the second half, hitting on 10-of-15 passes for 104 yards.

49ers 23, Rams 14:

Quarterback Jim Plunkett tossed a pair of touchdown passes and San Francisco outscored Los Angeles, 17-0, in the second half. Pat Haden and Vince Ferragamo each connected for TDs as the Rams bolted to a 14-0 lead, but the Rams were blanked in the second half with Joe Namath calling signals.

Bears 14, Oilers 10:

Trailing, 10-7, in the fourth quarter, Chicago's Bo Rather caught a 40-yard pass and Roland Harper ran one yard for a touchdown four plays later to give the Bears the victory. Harper's plunge lifted the Bears' pre-season record to 3-1. Chicago quarterback Mike Phipps, playing only the first half, completed 9-of-13 passes.

Saints 20, Bills 17:

Archie Manning threw an 11-yard TD pass to tight end Henry Childs and Rich

Szaro added two field goals to give the Saints their third straight pre-season victory. O.J. Simpson played the first half for the Bills, gaining 32 yards on five carries.

Steelers 26, Jets 13:

Terry Bradshaw put on a dazzling passing display in the first quarter, hitting 9-of-11 passes for 91 yards and two TDs to power the Steelers over the Jets. Bradshaw, who played only the first and last periods, finished with 13-of-16 for 125 yards.

Broncos 10, Falcons 2:

Craig Penrose tossed a 28-yard TD pass to Riley Odums and Jim Turner kicked a 35-yard field goal to lead the unbeaten (3-0) Broncos over the puncheonless Falcons — who have yet to score a TD this pre-season.

Buccaneers 10, Packers 7:

Ed Williams plunged one yard for a TD midway through the final quarter while his teammates intercepted three passes, recovered two fumbles and sacked Packer QBs five times for Tampa Bay's first exhibition triumph.

Chargers 29, Giants 17:

James Harris fired a pair of second-period TD passes to wide receivers Charlie Joiner and Johnny Rodgers as the Chargers, 2-1, trampled the winless Giants. San Diego linebacker Don Goode returned an interception 34 yards for a TD on the game's final play.

TAKING A FLYING LEAP over a jump is Jose Galan during the skateboard contest, Saturday. There were five overall winners and they were: Shane Smiley (Boys' 9 and under), Curt Bisquera (Boys' 10-13), Scott Parson (Junior Men), Kevin Niccoli (Men's Division) and Julie Goddard (Girls' Division). Approximately 30 skateboarders entered the contest.

North collects 60 grand for first PGA victory

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Just before Andy North was set to tee off for the final round of play at the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic Sunday, a PGA official approached him — as he had every other player — and routinely asked him what address he wanted his check mailed to.

"Never mind," North answered. "I'll pick mine up on the 18th green."

Generally, only the players who finish 1-2 receive their checks in person. And Andy North was confident that finally, after almost five years on the pro tour, he was about to win a tournament.

"I really thought I was going to win starting yesterday

(Saturday)," said North, whose three-day total of 12-under-par 201 gave him a three-stroke lead over Tom Weiskopf and Howard Twitty going into the last 18 holes. "I figured that someone would have to shoot a 65 to beat me. Then, in the morning, when I saw the wind I changed my mind and I knew after four holes that it was mine if I didn't make any mistakes."

North did make mistakes — but by that time, only veteran George Archer had a slim hope of catching him. North finished with a par-71 and a four-day total of 12-under-par 272, picking up $60,000 and more than doubling his earnings for the year, moving from 45th to 13th with $112,687. Archer, who, along with Twitty, partnered North Sunday, wound up two strokes off the pace at 274, with a 4-under 67.

North got off to a good start, with birdies on the fourth and fifth to move 14-under. But he bogeyed the eighth and felt he "never hit any more good shots after that."

He managed a birdie on the 10th and bogeyed the 16th and 17th. But Archer, who had six birdies and two bogeys on the first 13, parred the last five holes and never came closer than 2-under.

Archer, whose best finish this year — prior to Sunday — had been ninth at San Diego, received $34,200 for placing second. Weiskopf, whose 1-over 72 put him at 8-under 276 and into third, picked up $21,300.

Jack Nicklaus, who had been at par or over for the entire tournament, finally broke through Sunday with a 5-under 66. He was tied with six others at 279.

North, 27, said, "This victory really means a lot to me. After 4½ years it gets tiring to hear people ask, 'What's wrong with him?' They don't realize how difficult it is to win out here."

On Sunday, North finally learned how it felt to be a winner. And despite the fact that he led all the way, he thought of Archer and added, "I'm just glad we finally ran out of holes."

Cosmos use an 'umbrella' to nip Rochester in NASL playoffs, 2-1

United Press International

The Cosmos put up an "umbrella" defense after taking a one-goal lead Sunday in the opener of a two-game North American Soccer League semifinal playoff series and though the Rochester Lancers rained shots upon them, none trickled through.

The Cosmos 2-1 victory in Rochester puts pressure on the Lancers when they face the Cosmos Wednesday night at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J. The series victor will meet the winner of the Seattle-Los Angeles series Sunday at Soccer Bowl in Portland, Ore.

Though Rochester outshot New York 16-7 in the first half, 8-2 in the second and had 10 corner kicks to the Cosmos's one, the "umbrella" defense repelled repeated Lancer thrusts throughout the second half.

New York goalie Shep Messing explained the strategy by saying: "We've been working on the umbrella defense recently and this was the time to use it."

"We sacrifice midfield and collapse around the penalty area. We can't take chances and no mistakes."

Defender Franz Beckenbauer said: "It's a standard tactic when you have a one-goal lead away from home. We played cautiously from the beginning. But, at home Wednesday, we'll be attacking."

The former captain of the World Cup champion West German team praised the Lancers' forward line.

"Their strikers are very good, all of them," he said.

Rochester's high-scoring Mike Stojanovic put the home team ahead at 16:56 with a bullet headed through Messing's outstretched arms.

Pele set up Giorgio Chinaglia, who scored the tying goal 22 minutes later for the Cosmos.

Steve Hunt, aided by a mixup in the Rochester defense, scored the winning goal with two minutes remaining in the first half.

A record 20,005 jammed tiny Holleder Stadium to watch the contest in a light rain.

Beckenbauer, when asked about the quality of play in the NASL, said: "The playoff teams in this league are right now equal to first division teams anywhere in Europe."

Jimmy Robertson scored one goal and assisted on another to power the Seattle Sounders to a 3-1 victory over the Los Angeles Aztecs Sunday night in the first game of their semifinal series.

The Aztecs only goal was scored by Bobby McAlinden on an assist from Charlie Cooke at 15:33. The Sounders, who have won six straight, tied the score in the first half when Robertson took a rebound and slipped the ball past Los Angeles goalkeeper Bob Rigby at 38:45.

Seattle got its final two goals in the second half when Steve Buttle scored on a pass from NASL rookie-of-the-year Jimmy McAllister at 62:47. Robertson then set up Mickey Cave's goal at 66:33.

Santa Maria Speedway

By JANE DALY

Action was wild as the regular program of stock cars, supermodified/sprints and hobby stocks ran at the Santa Maria Speedway Saturday evening.

Stock car action saw the red flag drop on lap six in the main when Dan Simkins of Santa Maria and Randy Wright of Pismo Beach tangled in the back chute and Wright slammed headlong into the wall.

LeRoy Shaffer clipped the rear of the Wright machine and also ended up in the wall with minor damage.

Bobby Randolph of Santa Maria, who had just grabbed the lead from Bobby Claborn of Santa Maria prior to the red, hung on for his second victory of the season. Behind him were Bobby Payne of Santa Maria, Simkins, Claborn, and Doug Taylor of Lompoc.

Jamie Pfeifer of Santa Barbara collected his first trophy dash of the season over Randolph, Simkins and Payne.

Elton Shaffer took the slow heat over Jim Jones, Mark Jones, and Julio Lemons with Taylor grabbing the second heat over Gene Preast, Chuck Weber and Ray Marroquin.

Simkins took the fast heat over Bob Parson, Wright and Randolph with Simkins also taking the one-on-one series from Payne. Payne had borrowed Randolph's Mopar after destroying a drive line in his own Chevy during the dash.

Jeff Wright of Buellton won both the trophy dash and the 15-lap main event in the hobby stock class, the first coming over Dan White, Duane Buckley and Ron Sutton and the second over Greg Martin, Buckley and White.

The marathon 25-lap sprint/modified main event took an hour to run as two red flags slowed action. The first red came on lap 10 when Duane Ficus of San Luis Obispo, coming back after a long layoff, ran over the front of Hentry Hughes' mount and rolled going into turn one. Five laps later Doyle Dunniven of Paso Robles lost it in the same place and barrel-rolled coming to rest on his roll cage. Both drivers emerged uninjured, however their cars were out for the evening.

The Paso ace had jumped to an early lead and held it until the first red.

On the restart, young Del Muntzel of Santa Maria out-charged Dunniven in the second turn and took the lead which he held until lap 21 when he suddenly stopped on the back chute after running out of fuel.

Current point leader, Frank Burgin of Santa Maria, inherited the lead and took his fifth main of the year. Following were Ed Stanfield of Santa Maria, Dale Huntington of Costa Mesa, Kenny Mauer of Atascadero, and Charlie Jones of Cambria, the only cars left running out of the 14 car field.

Muntzel took the trophy dash over Burgin, Ficus and Stanfield with Huntington, Jones, Mauer, and Pat McCormick of Shandon taking the top spots in the slow heat. Burgin took the first heat over Roy Guy of Atascadero, Ken VanBlargen of Paso Robles, Muntzel and Stanfield.

Santa Maria Speedway will host the NARC sprints Saturday evening with such stars as LeRoy VanConnett, Rick and Ron Horton, and Phil Pedlar expected to head the contingent of drivers from Northern California.

September 4, the Speedway hosts a $4000 purse stock car open competition with the winner guaranteed $1000. Pits will open at 3 with practice slated for 6 and time trials at 7 p.m. The first race, a 6 car trophy dash will begin at 8:30.

Austin wins second LPGA event in a row

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Debbie Austin scored her second win in a row with a record-breaking victory during the weekend at the $50,000 Wheeling LPGA Classic on the 6,200-yard Speidel course.

But the 29-year-old pro, who withstood a seven-birdie charge by Hollis Stacy to win by one stroke Sunday, said she'll pass up this week's Patty Berg Classic in St. Paul, Minn.

"I'm mentally tired. I have to take a break," she said.

It was Austin's fifth victory this year, after eight years on the pro tour without a win. Her two-under-par 35-35-70 amounted to a 54-hole total of 209 and a first-place take of $7,500. It also broke the tournament record of 212, set by Carole Jo Skala in the tournament inaugural in 1974, and tied by Susie McAllister a year later.

Hollis Stacy birdied the 18th hole with a 15-foot putt from the fringe for a 67 and 210. Then she stood by helplessly as, minutes later, Austin birdied the hole for the victory.

Laura Baugh took third place with a 72 for 213, while Jan Stephenson placed fourth with a 70 for 216 and fifth place. Defending champion Jane Blalock had a 71 which tied her for sixth place at 218 with Bonnie Lauer, who had a 73.

The final nine was a battle between Austin and Stacy, which looked like an easy Austin win for a while. She knocked in a 30-foot putt for a birdie at the 12th hole and followed that by running her drive onto the green at the 370-yard No. 13 for a cinch birdie that put her eight under par for the tournament.

But up ahead, Stacy birdied the 13th from three feet, and when she rammed in a 30-footer for a birdie two at the 15th hole, she was only two behind.

Stacy bogeyed the 16th and Austin bogeyed 16 and 17, cutting the gap to one stroke. After Stacy birdied No. 18, Austin reached the green in two with a 2-iron and two-putted from 45 feet.

August 23, 1977

Lady Luck is prepared to devote considerable attention to you this year provided you don't take her for granted. If you do, she may prove to you the truth of that old adage that women can be tickle.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A situation that you personally direct will come off well today. Matters that you delegate to others stand a good chance of being bungled. Find out more of what lies ahead for you by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph I letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Rather than boasting about your accomplishments today, let others trumpet your praises. If it comes from you, the horn somehow sounds a discordant note.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Put your faith today in things the world cannot corrupt or time erase. Store up for yourself treasures to uplift the spirit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Joint ventures are fortunate today, provided you don't try to dominate things. Take a back seat. The bus is being steered in

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a strong possibility today you could willfully ignore the advice of experts. Such a course of action is unwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To be hopeful is commendable, but to be optimistic, beyond possibility is self-defeating. Strike a reasonable balance today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your categories well-defined today where friends are concerned. Those you pal around with socially should not be called upon to help you businesswise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It isn't that you're not going to have your share of opportunities today. Whether you'll be able to make the most of them is the question.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Business situations are a mixed bag today. In some cases you'll put together real winners, in others you'll lose out by gross miscalculation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should you fail to pull in concert with your mate or partners today, you'll be self-defeating. Only by joint effort can you scale the mountain.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're prone to work in fits and starts today. There are a lot of top-priority projects you'll gloss over.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be overly concerned with projects promising big gains in the future. Gather the coins you're sure of today. Leave the speculative dollars for later.

Opening lead	—	—	—

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Declarer in a suit contract must decide what to do with his trumps as a starter. Can he afford to draw all the enemy trumps? Can he afford one trump lead? Must he leave the trumps alone and play a side suit?"

Jim: "In general he should play as many trumps as he can afford, but no more."

Oswald: "South might well have bid three notrump, but he wanted the 150-point honor bonus. If West had opened a trump, South would have wished that he had settled for the nine-trick game, but West had a normal club lead and made it."

Jim: "South wasn't sure of his contract but he was sure of one thing. He could not afford the luxury of even one trump lead so at trick two he led his deuce of diamonds."

Oswald: "The play went fast from then on. East won and led a trump. South won and led a second diamond. East won and led a second trump whereupon South led a third diamond."

Jim: "West won, but didn't have a trump to lead, so eventually South got to trump his last diamond and make the spade game."

Ask the Jacobys

We keep getting asked if we approve a notrump opening bid with a five-card major suit.

The answer is that we do if our distribution is 5-3-3-2. We have honors on our short suits and 16 or 17 high-card points. With 18 high-card points and a five-card suit our hand is too strong.

OPINIONS

The Record's aim is to present facts in its news columns and opinions in its editorial columns.

At it again

Two interesting stories appeared in the Record this week, side by side. One headline read: "Measure giving lawmakers raise advances to Senate." The other read: "More than $40 million spent in legislative lobbying efforts."

A simple conclusion is drawn: It costs money to make laws.

The State Legislature is back again at the game of giving themselves a raise. This time it is a 10 per cent hike, the maximum allowed under the Constitution. It would be foolhardy to expect the Legislature to give themselves anything under the maximum.

Legislators presently receive $23,332 annually plus $35 per day each day the Legislature is in session. In addition, a fringe benefit package that would be the envy of any workers in this State.

The 10 per cent hike would give them $25,555 per year.

Tied to the pay raise bill is a measure that would create an independent commission to set pay for elected state officials. Wonder who will appoint the commission?

The other story relates to the first inasmuch as it shows an additional "fringe" the many lawmakers receive. Lobbyists throw the loot around to the tune of $40 million to influence decisions with dinners and gifts to lawmakers, their staffs and other officials. For example, Democratic Senator Bill Greene attended the Academy Awards show at lobbyist expense of $576. Wonder why?

It is difficult to justify pay raises for jobs not done. Property tax payers have been looking for viable tax relief this year from their Legislature and it appears that what they will get is nothing more than a "band-aid" solution, overloaded with political overtones.

That time, already?

It struck us like a bolt from nowhere. We were spinning the television dial the other evening and there it was — a football game.

Those odd, unearthly creatures slogging up and down the field were not fugitives from "Star Wars." They were madmen who thought it was time to play football again.

We listened. It was over 90 degrees on the playing field. It's too hot to play football, we thought. It's only August, not October. So why are they playing football already? Why aren't they water-skiing instead of covering punt returns?

Because they're daft, that's why.

The baseball season has nearly two more months to run. Temperatures are still 99 degrees in the shade. Grown men should know better.

Oh well, might as well relax and enjoy it before basketball season begins.

It seems obvious to us that flying an airplane is one line of work in which women, given half a chance, should be able to excel.

Women in the average are smaller than men and maneuver better in tight quarters. They often have more dexterity. And, of course, if life expectancy tables are any indication, they do well under stress and strain.

Yet, the Air Force is only now beginning to recognize that fact. The first group of 10 female pilots will be graduated from flying school Sept. 2 at Williams Air Force Base in Arizona. A second group will go into training this fall.

The main hangup, of course, has been the legal restriction against women in combat. The Air Force plans to get around the no-combat rule by assigning its female pilots to cargo planes, aerial tankers, weather reconnaissance, medical evacuation and other non-combat missions.

We suspect that in the not too distant future the non-combat rule will disappear. The Army, for example, is now sending female soldiers on field maneuvers in West Germany next month. Navy Secretary W. Graham Clayton wants to send women to sea.

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING

When a 14-year-old boy decides to paint his own bedroom it brings about much nail biting on the part of parents. Oh well, we did reserve the authority to pick the color shades ... We note that our former sports editor, Scott Ostler, had his first by-line in the Los Angeles Times last week on a story concerning characters in the paddock area of the Del Mar racetrack. Congrats ... We sure had a mental lapse the other day in this column when we referred to a bolt of thunder, when, of course, we meant a bolt of lightning ... Nothing looks worse than the first few days of a man trying to grow a beard ... We hear that there is a big run on the purchase of Elvis Presley records and albums ... The Rudolph building on South H Street is certainly going to have a new look once that second floor comes off. That's as far as they are going to go.

Interior aids hunters

WASHINGTON — The big game hunters who are slaughtering endangered animals may have found an ally at the Interior Dept.

The hunters are taking careful aim at the list of endangered species, which protects such rapidly vanishing animals as the leopard, zebra, antelope, quail and Mexican duck. If the hunters water down the safeguards, they will be able to kill and import greater numbers of the imperiled animals. Should restrictions be lifted, for example, the sleek leopard may soon be seen nowhere except in the windows of chic fur salons.

Until recently, the United States has been leading the fight against wholesale slaughter of endangered animals. But that policy has now been jeopardized by the Interior Dept.'s top official in charge of protecting wildlife.

He is the pipe-smoking, personable Robert Herbst, who has quietly caved in to the demands of the hunting lobby. He will permit a hunter to be one of two private U.S. representatives to an international conference which will decide whether many endangered species will survive. That decision, fumed one environmentalist, "is like sending a member of the Ku Klux Klan to an international conference on human rights to provide 'balance' to the delegation."

Herbst insists, however, that the hunters should have a vote at the convention. "They represent a certain element of the conservation community that has a right to be heard," he told us. "I just saw it as a fair thing to do."

Herbst made up his mind after huddling privately with three officials of Safari Clubs International. Even though the hunters fiercely oppose U.S. policy on endangered species, Herbst permitted the Safari officials to choose one of their own to attend the conference. Growled one Interior official: "Everybody found out about it after the fact."

During Herbst's recent tenure as Minnesota's top environmental official, the Interior Dept. formally threatened to take him to court for allegedly authorizing the slaughter of endangered timber wolves. Herbst maintained the regulations were confusing.

We have discovered that Herbst misled the Senate when he testified at his confirmation hearings that he tried to change the wolf's status from "endangered" to "threatened." We have obtained a letter in which Herbst requested that Minnesota wolves be removed from all federal protection.

The hunters, however, were so impressed with Herbst's previous performance that they enthusiastically supported him at his Senate confirmation hearings.

LIKELY CHOICE: Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., a one-time choir director and organist who now chairs the House International Relations Committee, is not exactly shy about tooting his own horn.

Recently, for example, Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill asked a number of House chairmen for nominees to serve on the new committee on intelligence. Five respected congressmen on the International Relations Committee vied for the opportunity. Zablocki carefully surveyed the available talent and decided on an even better choice — himself.

Zablocki told us he had asked for ad received the speaker's permission before selecting himself. He has developed expertise in the intelligence field, he added.

O'Neill was reportedly miffed at the plodding but amiable Zablocki for picking himself. A spokesman for O'Neill officially denied this.

This isn't the first time the Milwaukee congressman has promoted his own candidacy. Last February, Zablocki raised a ruckus when someone else was chosen as chairman of the House delegation to the North Atlantic Assembly.

"I feel as chairman of the committee I should be chairman of the delegation," he whined to O'Neill. The speaker scolded Zablocki and the congressman threatened to pick up his marbles and go home.

Zablocki later changed his mind about quitting the delegation. But he's now learned the rules well enough to make sure he's chosen for the important games.

INDOCHINA UPDATE: North Vietnamese pilots have been flying some of the sophisticated U.S. jet fighters, bombers and transport planes that were left behind when Saigon fell. They are astounded, say our sources, at the technical assistance and knowledge the United States shared with South Vietnam. The Soviets gave the North Vietnamese plenty of supplies but would never relinquish their technical expertise ...

The Communists in Laos, say diplomatic sources, are anxiously trying to secure U.S. economic aid. They continually bring up the subject on their radio broadcasts and to visiting U.S. diplomats. In return, the Laotians may offer to help find missing U.S. pilots shot down over their country ...

When the brutal Khmer Rouge Communists took over Cambodia in 1975, thousands of refugees fled to Thailand and Vietnam. At first, the refugees were returned to Cambodia. Then, according to U.S. analysts, the Vietnamese began to notice the bodies of refugees floating down the Mekong River. Now the Vietnamese talk privately of the "brutality" of the Cambodians and refuse to return any more refugees.

Parking issue heats up

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There are undoubtedly weightier issues confronting the Supreme Court these days than the constitutionality of local government efforts to ban commuter parking in residential neighborhoods.

But for those of us who struggle daily to surmount the multitudinous hazards of modern urban living, there is nothing like the looming legal shoot-out between city dwellers and suburban commuters to raise the blood pressure and set the old adrenalin racing.

Let it be said at the outset that we make no pretense of viewing with objectivity the case which Arlington County, Va. has thrust before the Supreme Court by attempting to protect its own residents from the seige of invading commuters.

Just try to be objective when you have experienced the dubious delight of walking out your front door in the morning to confront a solid rank of double-parked cars, engines revving, exhausts smoking, jockeying for a shot at any parking space vacated by a neighborhood resident.

Try staying cool when you drive your kid to school at 8:30 a.m. and return home to discover there's not a prayer of parking your car again until 6 p.m. when the commuters clear out for the suburbs.

You try it. As for us, we'll peg our hopes on Arlington County, San Francisco, Wilmington, Del., Cambridge, Mass. and all those other communities — including, at long last the District of Columbia — which have adopted ordinances restricting parking privileges in congested urban areas to the residents of those neighborhoods.

For once, the Justice Department has plunged into the legal fray on the side of the good guys — which is to say, the side we happen to support.

In its "friend of the court" brief asking the Supreme Court to review the case, the Justice Department did not, of course, describe the disputed parking ban as a weapon in the war between city dwellers and suburbanites.

No indeed. That would sound ... well, discriminatory, as the Virginia Supreme Court rather acidly suggested in its benighted decision striking down the Arlington County ordinance on grounds that no one is entitled to "A parking monopoly in the public streets."

The Justice Department, bless its inventive little soul has whopped up a more presentable argument: the Arlington County parking ban, and others like it elsewhere, help fight air pollution created by all those commuters' cars.

Now, everybody knows that air pollution is bad for people and other living creatures. And the Supreme Court itself has previously ruled, in other situations, that certain legislative acts which discriminate against particular classes of people or activities are perfectly permissible as long as they are "rationally related to a legitimate state interest."

The exception, the court has said, is any type of legislative classification which "trammels fundamental personal rights or is drawn upon inherently suspect distinctions such as race, religion or alienage ..."

Cars obviously have no race, religion or ethnic heritage. And the use of a car, the court has held, is not a fundamental personal right. Fighting air pollution is clearly a "legitimate state interest."

The Justice Department says the United States of America is all for it, even if the battle requires a little discrimination.

"Any program to reduce pollution, including restrictions on non-resident parking, imposes hardships on those who must alter their behavior, but the existence of such hardships is inevitable," the department says in its brief.

Hard cheese, commuters. Uncle Sam is on our side in this little skirmish, so take a bus to work, pay to park in a downtown garage, or come sample the joys of city life — like free street parking.

At wits end by Erma Bombeck

Shower syndrome

A mother wrote last week and said, "My son is so shy and uncommunicative I probably won't know he is going through puberty until he has passed it."

Boys are like that. If my son came home and found me unconscious on the kitchen floor, he'd yell in my unconscious ear, "What's for snack?"

Actually, there is only one surefire, telltale, infallible way of telling whether or not your son has discovered that girls need more padding on a softball team than boys do.

I call it the Shower Syndrome.

For four or five years, the only contact my sons had with water was a sponge in the back of the church filled with holy water. I had the only kids on the block who could take a shower and not get their hair, trousers or shoes wet.

I nagged them to death about it.

"Did you take a bath?"

"I went swimming."

"Did you wash your hands?"

"I washed the one that was dirty. See?"

"Why don't you take a shower?"

"Where are we going?"

Then, for no apparent reason, we heard the water running ... and running.

And running. And running.

"What is he doing in the shower this long?" asked my husband. "Washing away his sins?"

"He has just discovered girls."

"When is he going to discover that we only have a 30-gallon hot water tank and he emptied that to wash his hair?"

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness," I quoted.

"Billy Graham isn't that religious."

"Look," I said, "I know a body left in water three days is not attractive, and you know it, but the point is, he doesn't know it."

If you can't hear the water running, there are still other clues to your son's discovery of the opposite sex. He will use a can of deodorant a day ... for each arm ... each time he takes a shower. He will use mouthwash like it runs free out of the tap. As for shampoo, I never thought I would see the day when I would hide two tablespoons of shampoo in the team canister so I could wash my hair over the weekend.

As my husband observed the other day as he stepped from his cold shower, brushed his teeth with baking soda, squirted hair spray under each arm and gargled with a cup of coffee, "I think I liked 'em better when they were dirty."

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing this in reference to the article "Council OKs PG&E Refund" in Wednesday August 17, 1977 Lompoc Record.

I was upset to learn that the City Council had decided to give a blanket refund and spend the remainder of the moneys on mid-street lighting.

I do not agree with the way the remaining moneys, after the blanket refund has been dispersed, is going to be used. I feel this is a misappropriation of funds or if we (the residents of the City of Lompoc) are paying this Fuel Cost Adjustment to the City of Lompoc as a tax, the City of Lompoc is collecting funds under false pretenses.

According to the City Treasurer's office the Fuel Adjustment Cost is "based upon the amount of fuel used in PG&E's electric generating plants. These costs have steadily increased and have risen sharply in the last 3 months. The City has no alternative but to add this cost to each customer's bill. The fuel cost adjustment rate you pay is the same rate the City pays. This can be computed by multiplying the rate shown on the bottom of your bill times the kilowatt hours which equals the amount you are charged for the fuel cost adjustment." This is the literature that is handed to you when you ask questions concerning the Fuel Cost Adjustment.

If this statement is correct the City has no right, legally or morally to use any of the moneys collected for anything other than to pay the increased fuel cost as this was not a tax but to help pay the cost of the cities fuel.

Why do we need more mid-street lighting? I thought we were in the midst of an "energy crisis." Why are we installing more of something that is going to use more fuel?

If the mid-street lighting is installed, does this mean we will be paying another, or more Fuel Adjustment Costs?

It is my belief that all money should be refunded to those that paid the adjustment cost, just as the Federal Government pays a refund to the individual for the overage collected on your Federal Income Tax. I am in full agreement with Councilmember E.C. Stevens who states that a full refund should be given to the citizens.

Can someone please answer my questions?

Sincerely
Brenda Schuchard
